

My Climate Action Quilt

Greenhouse Gases are 'like a blanket covering the earth'. A blanket is meant to keep us warm and cosy, but right now, our Earth's blanket is way too hot! Instead, it needs something a little lighter, like a quilt, to get that balance of heat and cool just right.

A quilt is a light bed cover that has many squares. In these squares you can have different shapes, patterns and pictures. These shapes, patterns and pictures are often used to tell a story.

Imagine you are making the Earth a quilt. Use the squares below, or make your own on a separate piece of paper. Your quilt should have a combination of:

- Actions you will take to help the earth (like using less water when brushing your teeth)
- Actions you think everyone should take to help (like car sharing or cycle more)
- Pictures, shapes etc.– make your quilt stand out!

You can write in your squares too!

FOR EXAMPLE:

You could draw a bicycle in the first square to show that people should use their cars less. You could draw a re-useable lunch box or water bottle to show that people should reuse items rather than buying new, etc.
